

R&R THURSDAY JUNE 4TH

It has been a very long time since our group last visited this lovely place. Although, many of you may have done so with family and friends.

Once again, we will be spending morning tea overlooking the bushland at Redlands Indigiscapes Centre. I have made a booking for us on the patio. It might be advisable to bring something warm to wear as it could be quite cool and maybe windy.

They have 14.5 hectares of serene natural bushland to walk around, an environment education centre and gift shop.

For lunch, we have a booking for just next door at The Bush Pantry. It operates as a social enterprise for the disability support organisation Myhorizon, empowering people with disabilities through meaningful employment.

Once again, we will be eating outdoors but still under cover.

On the same site is a native nursery for you to browse through.
